Who We Are

South Coast Women in Building & Construction has been developed in response to the need to build educative forums, events and networking opportunities that are industry specific for those in the Illawarra, Shoalhaven and Shellharbour region of New South Wales.

Starting with their inaugural morning tea meeting on 21st February 2014 in Unanderra NSW.

A series of information forums of breakfast, morning tea & lunch sessions every 2 months throughout the year. See www.scwib.com.au for more details.

With each session in direct response to the interest raised by SCWIB subscribers/members colleagues and associates that keep the topics, speakers and training relevant to their business needs.

Each forum gives encouragement for those women in the industry to positively build their knowledge and motivation for individual and business growth within their careers in the building & construction industry

Local businesses in the building industry lend their support and encouragement to SCWIB to help gain access to important and relevant industry speakers and local representatives within the industry regulatory bodies and industry experts with their field.

Our Purpose

The purpose of SCWIB is to provide an opportunity where women can be encouraged, inspired and acknowledged, can obtain relevant industry specific information, network with their colleagues and exchange experiences that will encourage support.

The South Coast area is rapidly expanding in infrastructure, commercial and residential development, the need for a strong support group for women in the industry is growing.

Suited to:

- Women managing and or running a business in the building industry
- Women in specialised fields
- Women in trades
- Business owners and managers
- Local small to medium businesses
- Partners in business
- Business colleagues and staff

Local industry & training groups have recognised and support the enormous contribution women make to the building and construction industry and has generously provided for the facilitation, hosting or sponsoring of SCWIB events.

-  See our webpage for further details on previous host, sponsors & speakers. www.scwib.com.au

Why SCWIB

Women within the industry can have the opportunity to develop growth for their businesses or position with their companies, adding value by attending the Forums and keeping up to date with all levels of the industry. Women attending the Forums are welcome from a range of building businesses including, design & construction in residential, commercial or industrial, manufacturing and trades. Allied and associated service representatives are also welcomed to SCWIB.

The format of the forums alternate between breakfasts, morning teas & lunches and will typically include presentations specific to the industry by guest speakers regarding specific and current topics, allowing plenty of time for networking and is kept fairly casual to give opportunity for members to raise issues that they wish to discuss and the opportunity to raise awareness of local issues affecting their business or trade and gain further information and access to resources where available.

Opportunities are available for a sponsor to do a small presentation and provide a static display, please contact us for further information.

SCWIB events are promoted independently, through local business groups, subscribers & industry representatives.

Recognition

Develop awareness through creating a recognition award for – (suggestions only):-

- Excellence in specialised fields & trades
- Outstanding contribution to the local industry
- Most improved through personal development and achievement
- High achievement of creating a system, approach or business development that positively impacts on the building industry and workforce.

Work & negotiate with the relevant industry aware groups and associations to include “South Coast Women in Building & Construction” categories. Preliminary discussions have taken place with a positive response, logistics to be decided, created and implemented.

(Please note, this is open for discussion in logistics, criteria and implementation, all suggestions, ideas and comments are highly valued)

Join today and be a part of the growing industry specific group for women in the building and construction industry of your region.
